

Constance Hamilton Jameson, the author of “Blood and the Liquid “I” – Carl Jung’s *Black Books,” is an Analyst-in-Training at the Jungian Psychoanalytic Association. Ms. Jameson holds an interdisciplinary B.A., cum laude, with Distinction from Yale University where she studied Art and Classical Chinese focusing on the evolution of Chinese characters and ideographic symbols. Her graduate work was at the University of Tokyo as a Rotary Foundation Graduate Fellow and then Columbia Law School and the Columbia East Asian Institute as a U.S. Government Foreign Language Area Studies Fellow. Her essay on “Adam and Eve – Plato and Aristotle” was awarded Yale’s J. Edward Meeker Prize in English. Ms. Jameson is an avid researcher on medical anthropology and analytical psychology. For analytic sessions please contact the JPA Center at (800) 281-0630. Contact Constance via email at constancehameson@gmail.com.